

WASTED PIDO

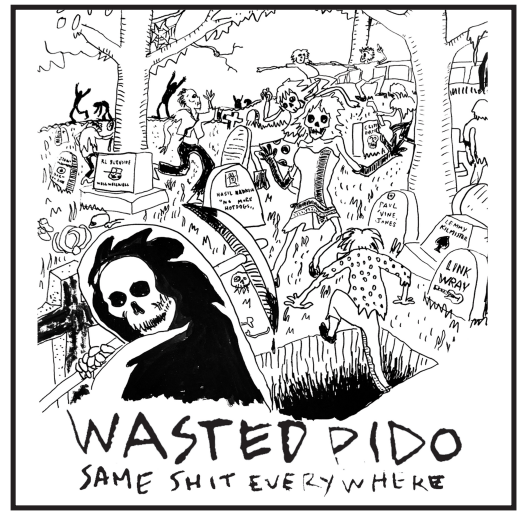

Punk in love with the dirty ways of lo-fi rock'n'roll and primitive jump blues. Wasted Pido from Venice (Italy) has been a one-man band since 2005. He records and produces his music in a 66% DIY way and has toured extensively across Europe and South America, playing gigs in the USA, Vietnam, and Japan — spreading his anarchic rock'n'roll and country blues with cheesy drum machines and foot-drum one-man-band style. From the electro-rockabilly of his first recordings, Wasted Pido's music gradually shifted toward a primitive "jump" blues, delivering a beat that combines hill-blues-inspired fingerpicking with primitive manouche strumming and punk rock power. After 20 years in the game, Wasted Pido knows what he's doing.

He has traveled the underground world alongside the likes of O Lendário Chucrobillyman, Sheriff Perkins, The Amazing One Man Band, Nestter Donuts, to name a few, and has opened for artists such as Bob Log III, Bloodshot Bill, Reverend Beat-Man, and countless other garage and punk bands. He even appeared live on national TV in Uruguay (!!).

After 15 years of activity, tapes, and 7" releases, he recorded his first full-length LP, Wasted Pido Ghost Revenge, in December 2019. Ready to hit the road for a 50-date tour in Europe in March 2020, he got stuck in his apartment because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Three years later, he was back on the road with O Lendário Chucrobillyman for a Eurotour in February/March 2023. In October 2024, he appears as himself in the now-cult movie Le Città di Pianura. In September 2025, he records Same Shit Everywhere on a Tascam tape recorder in a small house in the Alpage mountains. Released as a cassette in December for the Brazilian tour of January/February 2026, the recordings are now set to be re-released on vinyl by Go Down Records / Tempi Tecnici in July 2026.
